TRAIL MAPS
AND INFO INSIDE!

Welcome to Lincoln County! This guide was created to help you best explore Lincoln County's 10,000 square miles of high desert beauty! Lincoln County is an historic land, filled with mountain ranges, windswept valleys, streams and lakes, wild animals, hundreds of resources, shops and dining, and abundant opportunities for outdoor recreation!

Increasing numbers of visitors are coming to the county to experience the small-town atmosphere and enjoy the many scenic and historic attractions of the area. The county has five state parks within a 50-mile radius, five small towns, and many other great destinations. This booklet includes maps of the county and various trails, and an overview of each destination, directions, and other important notes.

A few general words of caution:

To ensure a safe and enjoyable visit, please travel with care. Remember, this is a high mountain desert environment with open range highways, so please be prepared. Livestock is free to roam across the blacktop so keep an eye out, especially at night. If possible, it's best to avoid driving long distances after dark.

In many areas, cell phone coverage is spotty at best. It's best not to depend on having any kind of reliable cell phone reception outside of the towns.

Vehicle survival kits are always a good idea. Some basic items include drinking water, flashlight, food/snacks, blanket or sleeping bag, first aid kit, duct tape, and an assortment of tools.

Some of the destinations require a high clearance vehicle. The terrain can get very rough, and damage to roads is frequent due to harsh winters and frequent flooding.

LINCOLN COUNTY HISTORY

Eastern Nevada was home to Native Americans for thousands of years before European exploration. The early Basketmakers and later Fremont people lived in the well-watered valleys, where they grew crops of corn, beans and squash, and built permanent “pueblos.” The more nomadic Southern Paiute started appearing in the area around 900 A.D., building no permanent dwellings, but – instead – moving with the seasons to hunt and gather the ripe nuts, berries, seeds and roots. The Fremont people disappeared from the archeologic record by 1200 A.D., reducing the competition with the Paiutes for the same game species which at one time included bison.

The next documented exploration of the area occurred in 1849, when several groups of California-bound families and prospectors split away from the “Old Spanish Trail” near present-day Enterprise, Utah. The various parties, with 27 wagons and untold numbers of pack mules, wove their way over nearly all the mountain ranges and valleys in Lincoln County, and eventually wound up crossing and naming Death Valley. One of these parties, Asahel Bennett, converted to the The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints several years after the journey, and he brought a group of Mormon pioneers to Meadow Valley in 1858 to establish a place of refuge for the church leaders, should it prove necessary as a result of animosities between the United States Government and the church. These few men, the “White Mountain Missionaries,” stayed only long enough to break ground, plant a few acres of grain, and build irrigation ditches to water the crops. The invasion by “Johnson’s Army” was forestalled, and the missionaries were re-called to Utah.

In 1863, missionary William Hamblin was again scouting new areas for settlement, and while he was in Meadow Valley, a Paiute Indian showed him some rocks which he called “panagari” or “panacker.” In March, 1864, Hamblin brought some men with him and established claims on the “panacker ledge,” which was located eight or ten miles north of the valley itself. A specimen of the silver ore was sent to Salt Lake City, and it was deemed worthy of more exploration. J.N. Vandermark and Stephen Sherwood undertook the first expedition and along with Hamblin they organized the Meadow Valley Mining District in April, 1864. A group of soldiers under the command of Gen. Patrick Connor’s California Volunteers visited the discovery site in the summer of 1864. They staked a number of claims which later led to litigation. Trouble with the Indians along with the lack of means to process the silver ore restricted the amount of work that could be done on the claim in 1865 and 1866, although some prospectors apparently remained in the vicinity to prevent other persons from jumping their claims.

In May, 1864, Francis Lee and six other families moved from Santa Clara, Utah, to Meadow Valley, where they established an agricultural settlement that they called Panaca. The town struggled for the first several years, building a fort for protection against Indian raiding and theft. In 1865, Clover Valley (to the southeast) and Eagle Valley & Spring Valley (to the northeast) were also settled by pioneers. These small communities found ready outlets for their produce and dairy products in the growing number of prospectors heading through the valleys. Approximately 60 miles west of Meadow Valley, the Pahrnatagat mining District was formed in 1865, and William H. Raymond moved a mill from Los Angeles to process the ores. Success was not to be his, despite considerable investment in processing equipment. As the ores dwindled, Raymond went into partnership with another Pahrnatagat Valley miner, John H. Ely, and they moved their mill to Meadow Valley. They established a millsite near Panaca, which processed ores from the panacker ledge, and this became known as Bullionville.

Also in 1869, a new owner bought out some of the claims of the Meadow Valley Mining Company. Francois L.A. Pioche was a San Francisco businessman who invested a substantial amount of money in equipment and hired a metallurgist who was experienced in the chemical extraction of silver from its ore. A town sprang up around the claims on the ‘panacker ledge,’ which became known as Pioche’s City, or – simply – Pioche. Because the county seat was still located at Hiko, problems erupted. With more prospectors drifting into the area and staking claims, sometimes these overlapped prior claims. Mine owners resorted to hiring guards and gunfighters to protect their mining claims. Guns were the only law, and Pioche made Bodie, Tombstone, and other better known towns pale in comparison with its violence. It has been claimed that seventy-five men died “with boots on” before anyone in Pioche died of natural causes.

When first settled in 1864, the area was still a part of Utah Territory. Nevada officially became a state in October, 1864. Upon a request by the Nevada State Legislature in 1866, the boundary was revised, and Congress allowed an additional degree of longitude to be added to the eastern border of Nevada. This became Lincoln County, and its boundaries changed three more times over the course of the next 43 years. In 1867, all the land north of the Colorado River was transferred from Arizona Territory to Nevada, and a strip ten miles wide on the western boundary was ceded to Nye County. In 1865, some territory was received from Nye County along the northern border. In 1908, an act of the State Legislature split Lincoln County into two: Clark County was created out of the southern half, with the growing population of the railroad town, Las Vegas. The county seat likewise made several moves: initially it was decreed as Crystal Springs, but in 1867 was changed to Hiko. In 1871, with the abandonment of the mines in Pahrnatagat Valley, the county seat was moved to Pioche, where it remains today.

Further south, Caliente was founded in 1901, built on land owned by William and Charles Culverwell and surrounded by natural hot springs. In 1905, the Union Pacific railroad was completed in Caliente, followed by the construction of the train depot in the style of Spanish mission architecture.

Over the last 120 years, populations have fluctuated as industry booms have come and gone. What has remained constant is a rugged resilience among those who have made a home in this scenic high desert.

THE COMMUNITIES OF LINCOLN COUNTY

Alamo

The town of Alamo is located in southern Lincoln County, just 90 miles north of Las Vegas. This friendly community includes restaurants, a grocery store, churches, lodging, service stations, emergency services and a landing strip for small private airplanes. It is the social and business center of the rich Pahrnagat Valley and neighbor of the Pahrnagat National Wildlife Refuge.

The country surrounding Alamo offers beautiful scenery, with spring-fed lakes and pastures, amazing mountain ranges, and Native American artifacts. It is also one of the closest inhabited places to the government installation known as Area 51.

In the early 1860s, the Pahrnagat Valley was a prime range for horse thieves who stole stock in Utah and Arizona. After resting up in the valley, the rustlers and their horses would make the long journey across the desert and into California. It was once reported that there were over 350 different brands in the valley at one time. Described by one of the original settlers as “the toughest place I ever saw.”

Nearby Hiko was chosen as the county seat in February of 1866, and the discovery of gold brought about the establishment of many new mining towns. Eventually, the last of the rustlers were driven out of the area.

The town of Alamo celebrated its 100th anniversary in July of 2001. Fred Allen, Mike Botts, Bert Riggs and William Stewart originally laid out the town in 1901. The post office was established on May 12, 1905. The name of the town was derived from the Spanish word for “poplar” and denotes the presence of poplar or cottonwood trees in the area.

Caliente

Bureau of Land Management offers visitor information for travelers.

For sports and recreation there are three city parks, a public swimming pool, tennis courts, shooting range and motocross race track. Hometown activities include barbecues, softball tournaments, homecoming reunions and the Fourth of July celebration - drawing visitors from all over with great food, dancing, games for the kids and a dazzling fireworks display.

Caliente is conveniently located within some of the most beautiful country in the state. To the south is magnificent Rainbow Canyon, with the oasis-like setting of Kershaw-Ryan State Park just 2 miles south of the city center. Within 50 miles of the town are four other state parks: Beaver Dam, Cathedral Gorge, Spring Valley and Echo Canyon.

Located in southeastern Nevada, the quiet town of Caliente is the only incorporated community in Lincoln County. Shaded by beautiful cottonwood trees, the residential area has a friendly hometown feel.

Evidence of the historical roots of this railroad town can be seen in its mission-style railroad station.

City offices, a library and a unique mural in the old Amtrak waiting room now occupy the railroad depot. A picturesque line of "company row" houses are located just northeast of downtown. Town services include restaurants, gas stations, motels, a small casino and a variety of stores. The U.S. Department of the Interior-

Panaca

A quaint Mormon farming community dating back to the 1860s, Panaca is the oldest surviving town in eastern Nevada. Rich in tradition and agricultural beauty, many of today's townspeople are direct descendants of the original settlers. Visitors interested in 19th century architecture can enjoy a variety of beautifully designed buildings.

Panaca is a favorite stop for people traveling to Cathedral Gorge State Park which offers year-round camping and exploration. Many nearby ghost towns can also be explored. The Lincoln County Airport is situated about two miles west of Panaca and can accommodate small aircraft. Panaca is host to the July Pioneer Day celebrations and the Lincoln County Fair and Rodeo in early August.

Mormon missionaries and settlers arrived in Eastern Nevada in May of 1864 with hopes of establishing a network of growing colonies in the area. This effort, led by Francis Lee, was responsible for establishing the town of Panaca. The name "Panaca" is derived from the Southern Paiute word "Pan-nuk-ker" which means "metal, money, wealth." William Hamblin, a Mormon missionary to the Native Americans, was shown a location where "panacker" was found in abundance. The Panacker Ledge (Panaca Claim) was staked and the town of Panaca born.

From its early pioneer roots, the town featured a school, small grocery and mercantile stores, a church and a few modest homes. For the most part, present day Panaca has remained virtually unchanged.

Pioche

Much in contrast to its colorful past, Pioche today attracts new residents with its friendly, picturesque hometown appeal. The town is the Lincoln County seat, and the courthouse is a prominent fixture of the town. With full amenities, Pioche offers good food, lodging, shopping, automotive and emergency services. The town's recreation center includes park and picnic facilities, a swimming pool and a baseball diamond. A nine-hole golf course is also open for the avid golfer.

Local events include the annual Labor Day celebration offering parades, mining events, a craft show, lots of games for the kids and a fireworks display.

For a step back into the soul of the old west, pick up a walking-tour guide of Pioche's historic buildings from the Pioche Historical Museum on Main Street or the Million-Dollar Courthouse on Lacour Street. Visit sites such as Heritage Park, The Alamo Bar and Boot Hill for a journey into the rich history of Pioche. For more information, visit the Pioche Chamber of Commerce website at www.PiocheNevada.com. The site includes video tours.

Rachel

Originally called "Sandy" because of its long expanse of sand, Rachel is the youngest town in Nevada and is considered the "UFO Capital of the World." The town was named after Rachel Jones, the first child born in the community founded by D.C. Day in 1978. The community has been featured in magazines, books, television shows and many major newspapers as the center of UFO activity, drawing Sci-Fi fans and visitors from all over the world. The result of this publicity was the renaming of Highway 375 as "The Extraterrestrial Highway" by the Nevada State Legislature. For the inquisitive, part of the Nevada Test Site is situated in southwestern Lincoln County, close to Rachel. However, for obvious reasons, there are no guided tours and warning signs are posted for visitors who get a little too curious.

With only about one hundred people in the entire valley, Rachel does not even have a post office. There is, however, a restaurant/bar/motel and an RV park. Although there are least five permanent houses, most people live in mobile homes on patches of scrub desert. The town is located at the southern end of the Sand Springs Valley, an otherwise empty, bowl-shaped valley about twenty-five miles wide.

In and around this little town, alfalfa is grown and cattle raised. Western history buffs may want to explore the mountains surrounding Rachel. Paiute Indian artifacts such as arrowheads, petroglyphs and other signs of encampments can be found. Not far from Rachel are said to be ghost towns full of spirits of deceased cowboys. Inquire locally for directions – the friendly folks at Rachel invite everyone to explore their town and the surrounding area.

ALAMO

① Delamar Ghost Town

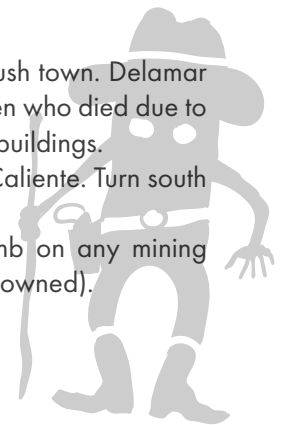

Explore and photograph the ruins of this once thriving gold rush town. Delamar features an old cemetery, with the gravesites of many young men who died due to mine dust inhalation. You will also find facades of various rock buildings.

Location: Delamar is off Highway 93 approx. 16 miles from Caliente. Turn south and drive about 15 miles on a gravel/rock road to Delamar.

Important Notes: DO NOT go into any mine shafts or climb on any mining structures. These mines are extremely dangerous (and privately owned).

A high-clearance vehicle is required.

② Mt. Irish Petroglyph Site

The Mount Irish site is rich with Rock Art, with three distinct areas to explore. The numerous petroglyphs, along with scatters of chipped and ground-stone, pottery and rock shelters, suggest the sites were occupied from 1000 B.C. to the 1860s.

Location: The entrance and gate to Mount Irish Rock Art Site is 3.9 miles from the intersection of State Route 375, State Route 318 and Highway 93 (the "Y"). Traveling north on State Route 318, towards Ely, it is on the left (west) side of the road just past Key Pittman Management Area. A BLM marker is just to the left of the gate. Go through the gate, and continue approximately 9 miles to the register.

Important Notes: Make sure to close the entry gate after going through. A high-clearance vehicle is recommended.

3 Nesbitt Lake/Hiko

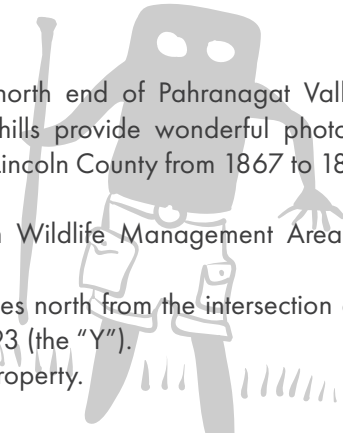

Hiko is a ranching community on the north end of Pahranaagat Valley. The lush, green fields, surrounded by rocky hills provide wonderful photography opportunities. Hiko was the county seat of Lincoln County from 1867 to 1871, due largely to silver mines in the area.

Nesbitt Lake is part of the Key Pittman Wildlife Management Area and is inhabited by various species of waterfowl.

Location: State Route 318, about four miles north from the intersection of State Route 375, State Route 318 and Highway 93 (the "Y").

Important Notes: Please respect private property.

4 Pahranaagat National Wildlife Refuge

Few landscapes are as contrasting as Pahranaagat National Wildlife Refuge's (NWR) lush wetlands and the surrounding Mojave Desert. Nourished by life-giving waters of Crystal and Ash Springs, the refuge offers ideal wetlands and riparian habitats for thousands of migratory birds, numerous birds of prey, deer and rare fish. Notably, 264 bird species have been recorded on the refuge, making it a popular destination for photographers. Hiking trails cross through meadows, marshes, lakes, streams and desert within a single visit.

Location: U.S. Highway 93 Mile Post 32, Alamo, NV 89001

Make sure to stop by the new visitor center! It is open from 9 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. Thursday - Monday. You can also call the front desk for ideas on where to go - (775) 725-3417.

5 White River Narrows Archaeological Site

White River Narrows Archaeological District was placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1976. The area is outstanding not only for rock art but also for the impressive rhyolite cliffs.

Location: The entrance (dirt road) to White River Narrows Archaeological District is 23.0 miles from the intersection of State Route 375, State Route 318 and Highway 93 (the "Y"). Traveling north on State Route 318 towards Ely, it is 4.1 miles past the "White River Narrows Archaeological District" sign and is on the right (east) side of the road.

Important Notes: When exploring the White River Narrows, be sure to watch your step. Rattlesnakes are common in this area. A high-clearance vehicle is recommended.

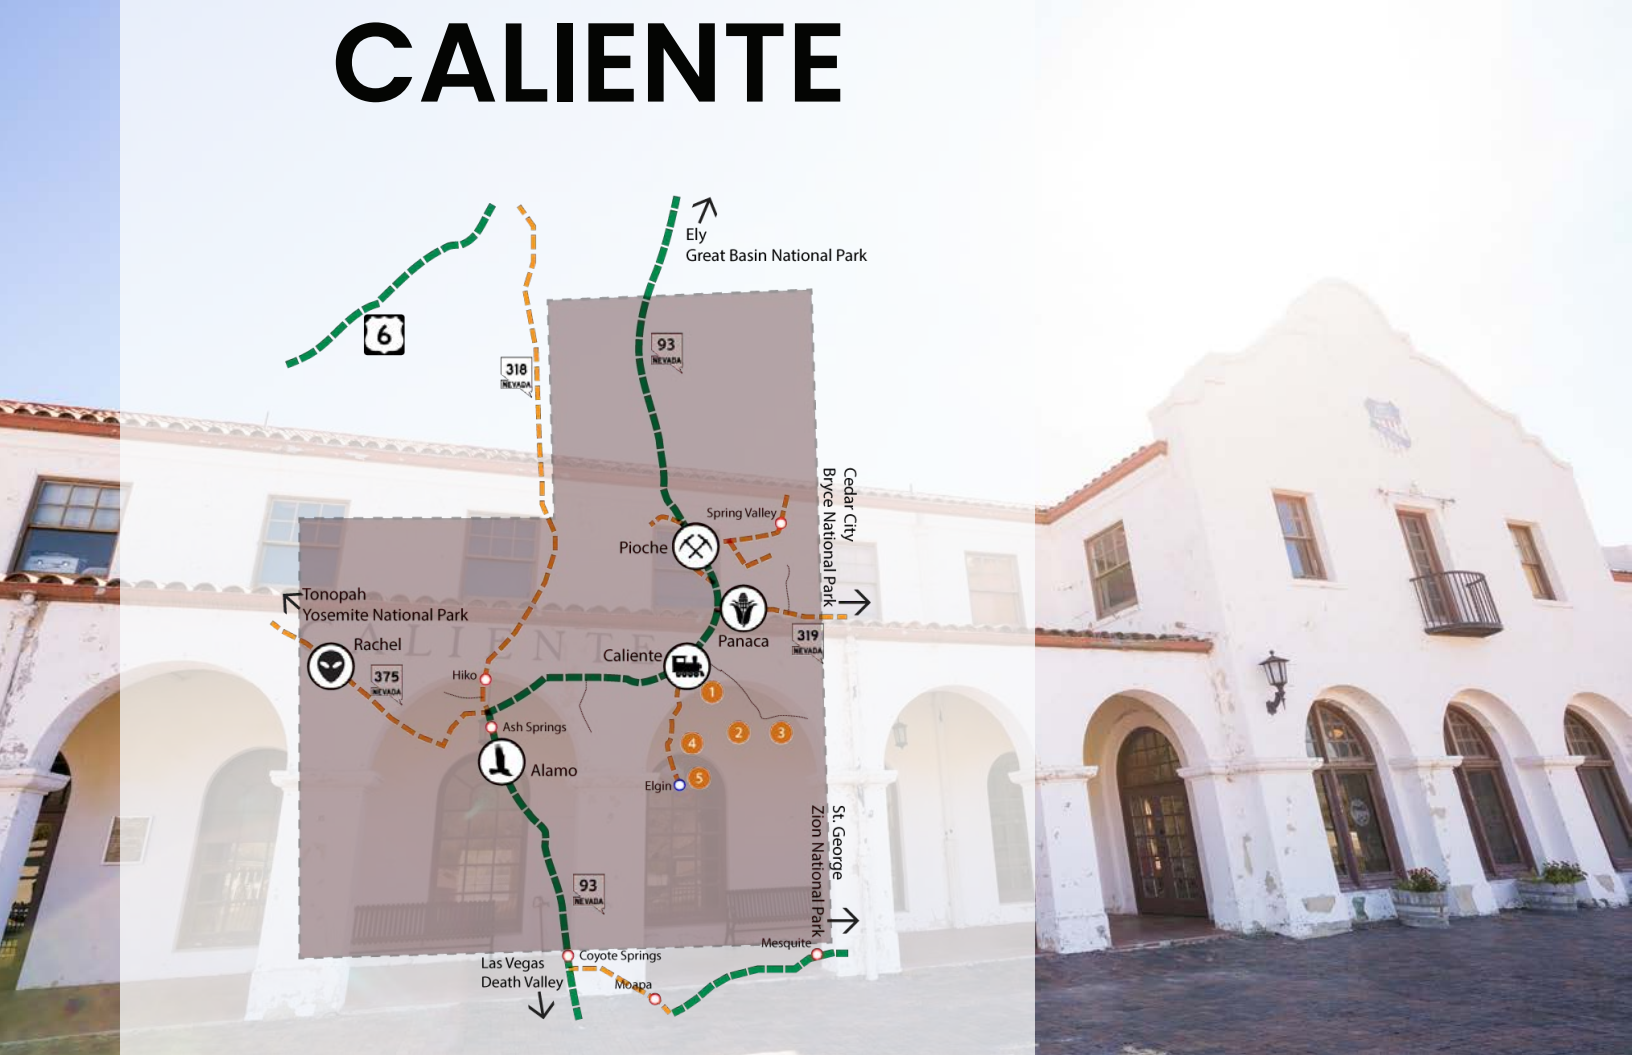

6 Basin and Range National Monument

The Basin and Range National Monument is a vast and rugged landscape that redefines our notions of distance and space and where opportunities for solitude abound. About two hours north of Las Vegas, the 704,000-acre monument includes Garden and Coal valleys, the Worthington and Seaman Mountains, the Golden Gate and Mount Irish ranges, Hiko and White River narrows; and Shooting Gallery rock art site.

The first national monument managed by BLM in Nevada, the Basin and Range National Monument provides for all types of outdoor recreation, including climbing, hiking, bicycling, camping, hunting, OHV riding and more.

CALIENTE

The Caliente Railroad Depot is the city's landmark and architectural gem. It was built by the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad (later the Union Pacific Railroad) in 1923 to serve the railroad's division point on the mainline between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City. The first floor held the passenger waiting room, station agent's office and other railroad offices. The second floor was used as a hotel. Today, the building houses the city's municipal services into the building. The Caliente Railroad Depot is now the Caliente city hall, library, and art gallery.

Location: 100 Depot Avenue, Caliente, Nevada.

② Railroad Spur, Track and Bridges

Caliente has many interesting bridges, railroad tracks, and one unused railroad spur, providing a variety of fun photography opportunities.

Location: Bridges new and old, and the abandoned spur, are found near the Caliente Hot Springs Motel, 2 Youth Center Drive, Caliente, Nevada. Railroad tracks and tunnels are visible through Rainbow Canyon, just south of Caliente on State Highway 317.

Important Notes: The railroad running through Caliente and Rainbow Canyon is active. DO NOT stand on the tracks. Please respect private property.

3 Beaver Dam State Park

The park is surrounded by scenic pinions and junipers, and has primitive camping units and year-round flowing streams. Good drinking water is also available. The manmade dam built in 1961, was damaged by flooding in 2005 and was completely removed in 2010. Stream fishing and bird watching are excellent along Beaver Dam Wash, and the campgrounds provide access for hunters during deer and turkey seasons. Call to check on road conditions at (775) 728-4460.

Location: 38 miles from Caliente. Travel 6 miles north on U.S. 93 to the Beaver Dam State Park sign, turn east and travel 19 miles on an improved gravel road and then 13 miles on a dirt road.

4 Kershaw-Ryan

Where wild grape vines climb sheer rock cliffs, and Gambel oaks, cottonwoods and elms provide a shady retreat, Kershaw-Ryan State Park is truly a desert oasis. Natural springs feed the lush landscape, providing a beautiful contrast to the rugged volcanic rock that make up the canyon walls. Situated in colorful Rainbow Canyon, it is a nature lover's dream.

Location: Two miles south of Caliente via Highway 93 and State Route 317.

Important Notes: Park entrance fees apply ($7 per day, $2 discount for Nevada residents).

5 Rainbow Canyon Scenic Drive

This is a 21-mile (42 miles round-trip) scenic drive. on a paved road through a deep canyon with colored rock and interesting formations. In contrast to the surrounding mountains are many cottonwood trees. The road closely follows a busy railroad line, and there are numerous railroad tunnels and deep cuts along the line.

Location: Just south of Caliente on State Highway 317.

Important Notes: Some portions of the road are covered with a few inches of water. DO NOT attempt this drive during heavy rain.

6 Mountain Bike Trails & Skills Park

Lincoln County offers mountain bikers the next great adventure. Over 40 miles of non-motorized trails are under construction in the county's high desert. The area's terrain, beauty, and climate combine to create an unrivaled mountain biking experience. Around 23 miles of trails in Barnes Canyon and Kershaw-Ryan are already completed and ready to ride.

The Mountain Biking Skills Park in Caliente provides two miles of fat tire fun in a structured setting. Located on a hill adjacent to the city's Super Park, these trails offer an incredible experience for all skill levels. Now open to the public, the skills park is the perfect complement to the other trails being built in the area.

PANACA

1 Bullionville

Bullionville was founded in 1869 following the discovery of silver ore near Pioche. Remnants of the town are still visible east of the park entrance.

Location: The Bullionville Cemetery Trail is found at Cathedral Gorge State Park. Cathedral Gorge is located 1 mile north of the intersection of US Highway 93 and State Route 319.

Important notes: Though the land is open to public access, it requires skirting private lands, and possibly opening and closing gates. Lots of places to skin knees or run a nail into a foot, so proceed with care.

2 Cathedral Gorge

The buff-colored formations of Cathedral Gorge hide treasures few have ever seen. The slot canyons carved into the soft-siltstone provide a maze of undiscovered wonders waiting for kids, and kids at heart, to find them. Look for the tunnel called the “rabbit hole” and climb through to the open spaces on the other side. Hike through a slot canyon all the way to the top of Miller Point where you can see the canyon from above.

Location: The park is just north of Panaca turnoff on Highway 93.

Important Notes: Park entry fees apply. ($7 to $12 per day, $2 discount for Nevada residents).

3 Condor Canyon

The Ice Cave, the mill site, the rock railroad bed (Built by Irish and Chinese laborers), the creek and waterfall, and side canyons - Condor Canyon is simply stupendous.

Location: About 3 miles out of Panaca, heading north on Panaca Spring Road, which will connect with Condor Canyon road.

Important notes: the last hill before the waterfall takes commitment and skill to conquer. If one hikes the canyon to the waterfall, it's about 2 1/2 miles one way. Depending on how overgrown the railroad bed is, cars and trucks might get paint scratched by tree limbs. Getting a flat tire is common.

Throughout history, this "chalk" or silstone has served as a recognizable landmark in the Meadow Valley. Nearby, other opportunities and curiosities exist. Wandering around town is the best plan. There are a lot of jeep/ATV trails in the foothills east of Panaca.

Location: In Panaca, near Lincoln County High School.

Important notes: DO NOT climb.

4 Court Rock

5 Panaca Spring

A nice place to take a swim. Views of/from the chalk hills, including Window Rock and Teapot Rock, can be stunning. There are a number of trails that allow for a wider view of the valley from adjoining hills.

Location: 1 mile north of Panaca on Panaca Spring Road.

Important notes: Some walking and minor uphill climbs are required for the chalk hills. Opening and closing gates is a must. One must avoid trespassing on the trace minerals mine.

6 Panaca Kilns

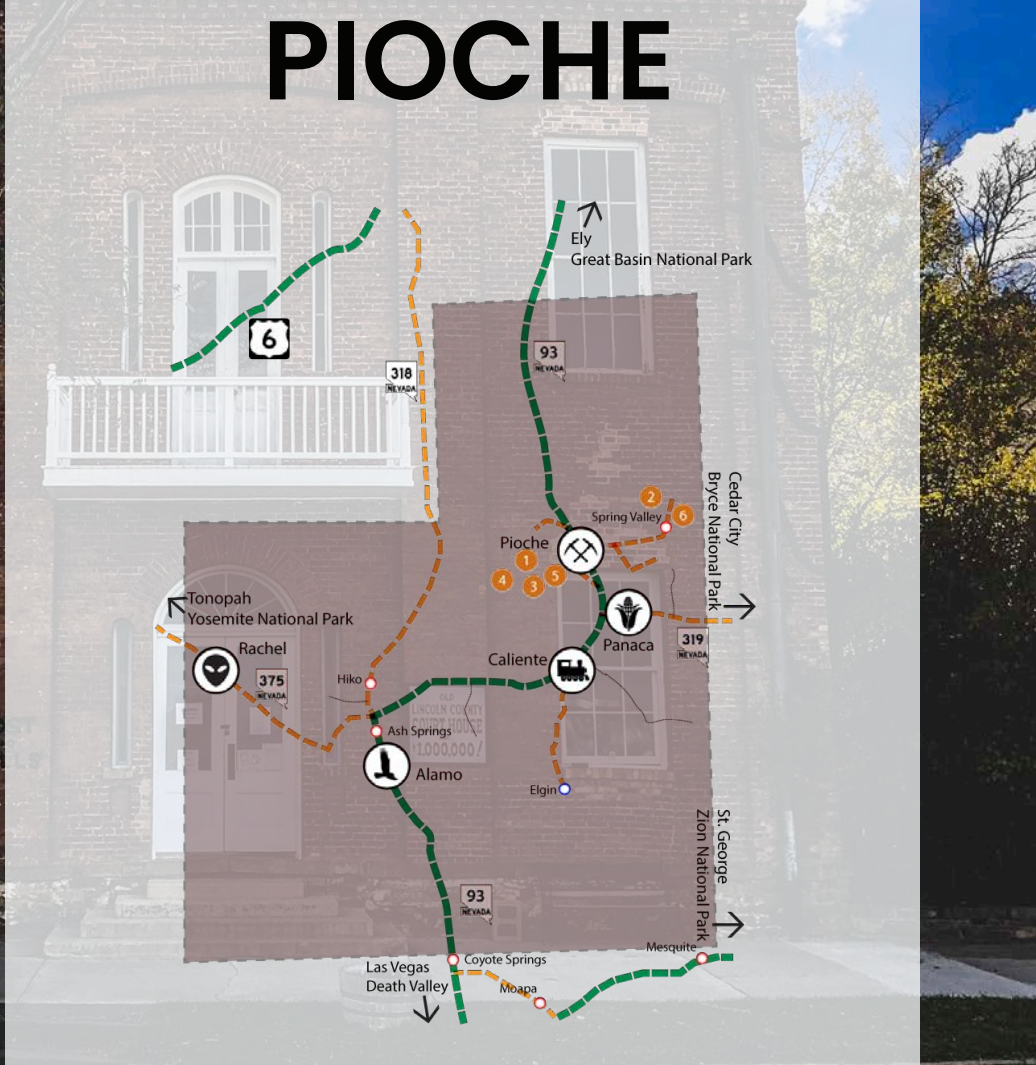

The two stone charcoal kilns located high in the Cedar Range of southeastern Nevada are impressive structures. They cost money to build and required skill and experience to operate. They were major industrial producers—filling the demands of Bullionville and Pioche smelters for high quality charcoal.

Location: Head east from Panaca on State Route 319. Just after Panaca Summit, turn south onto a dirt road and go about 4.5 miles.

Important notes: A high-clearance vehicle is recommended.

PIOCHE

1 Boot Hill Cemetery

Boot Hill Cemetery is a mesmerizing look at the old Wild West. With a history of having several more murders annually than Tombstone, AZ, it has been said that more than 70 men “were killed with their boots on” before anyone died of natural causes in Pioche. Many were buried here.

Location: Heading north on Main Street, take a right on Comstock Road Cemetery will be on the left.

Important notes: the cemetery is still being used as a burial ground today. Please be respectful of the deceased.

2 Echo Canyon State Park

Enjoy the beautiful Eastern Nevada scenery at Echo Canyon State Park. The park offers a 35-acre reservoir with a campground, picnic area, group use facilities and boat launch. Abundant wildlife, a wide variety of native plants and unique rock formations provide numerous photography opportunities.

Location: The park is 12 miles east of Pioche on State Route 322.

Important Notes: Park entry fees apply. Park entry fees apply. ($7 per day, $2 discount for Nevada residents).

3 Main Street

Main Street runs from the famous Treasure Hill down past the current Lincoln County Courthouse. From the days of mud and ruts to its present day concrete walks and asphalt paving, there have been thousands of exciting, tragic, happy, and wonderful events that have occurred along this Main Street. People from all over the world have traversed this small area and been charmed by its charisma.

Location: Turn west at the billboard from US 93, the road will take you over Treasure Hill and exit directly onto Main Street.

4 Million Dollar Courthouse

The Million Dollar Courthouse was built in 1871. The original contract for $16,400 ballooned to $1,000,000 by the time it was paid for in 1936. It's now a museum.

Location: From Main Street, turn west onto Lacour Street, after a quarter mile, the Million Dollar Courthouse will be on the west side of the street.

Important Notes: Admission is free, but donations are accepted.

5 Thompson Opera House

Thompson's Opera House, also known as Brown's Hall, Brown's Opera House or the Gem Theater, is a small theater building in Pioche, Nevada. The Opera House is a wood frame building built in 1873, attached roughly to the adjoining brick Gem Theater, a 1937 masonry cinema.

Location: Can be seen on the east side of the road when travelling on Main Street.

6 Spring Valley State Park

Spring Valley is not just rich in trout, but is also rich in history. Remnants of stone cabins, corrals, and rusted farming equipment tell the story of hardworking men and women who attempted to tame the land and make a home in the valley.

Take some time to visit the Stone Cabin and hike the trail from the cabin to the Ranch Campground and experience the park from another perspective.

Location: The park is 21 miles east of Pioche on State Route 322.

Important Notes: Park entry fees apply. Park entry fees apply. ($7 per day, $2 discount for Nevada residents).

MOUNTAIN BIKING TRAILS

The Multipurpose Trail System

Lincoln County offers mountain bikers the next great adventure. Around 70 miles of non-motorized trails are planned in the county's high desert. The area's terrain, beauty, and climate combine to create an unrivaled mountain biking experience.

Around 22 miles of trails are already completed and ready to ride. Trails can be accessed at the Barnes Canyon Trailhead or Kershaw-Ryan State Park.

Camping: Camping is allowed on public lands. Please camp on durable surfaces.

Designated Trails: The desert environment is fragile. Please stay on the trail and keep single track single.

Permits: Permits are required from BLM for commercial activities and group events on public lands.

Trail Etiquette: Bicycles must yield to hikers. Please yield to uphill traffic.

Trash: There is no trash collection in the area. Do not burn, bury, or put trash in toilets. Please "Pack It In - Pack It Out".

Safety: The Barnes Canyon area has limited cell service. Please inform others where you are going or ride with a partner.

Barnes Canyon Trailhead

About 4.5 miles (10-15 min.) from Caliente:

- 1) Turn toward Clover Canyon Road near the Thomas Petroleum Warehouse.
- 2) After approximately 300 feet, turn right onto Clover Canyon Road (parallel to railroad).
- 3) Travel Clover Canyon Road/Clover Creek Road for approximately 4 miles.
- 4) Turn right onto Barnes Canyon Road at the railroad crossing.
- 5) Travel .3 miles on Barnes Canyon Road to the Barnes Canyon Trailhead on the left.

* There is a creek crossing along Clover Creek Road. High Clearance and or 4WD vehicles are recommended but not mandatory.

Kershaw-Ryan State Park

Two miles south of Caliente via Highway 93 and State Route 317.

Skills Park

The Mountain Biking Skills Park in Caliente provides two miles of fat tire fun in a structured setting. Located on a hill adjacent to the city's Super Park, these trails offer an incredible experience for all skill levels. OHV-ING IN LINCOLN COUNTY

Looking for an off-roading adventure? Lincoln County is an off-roader's paradise and is home to the Silver State Trail. The trail consists of hundreds of miles of designated OHV roads, making it the perfect choice for riders looking for long-distance, scenic tours through the range and valley landscape of Lincoln County. Plan your trip today and get ready to experience a whole new level of off-roading fun!

Silver State Trail

The Silver State Trail is hundreds of miles of designated Off Highway Vehicle (OHV) trails, making it the perfect choice for riders. Access to towns and highways exist off of the main trail.

The Silver State Trail was developed and is managed by the BLM, with the help of public citizens, and is the first congressionally designated OHV trail in the Nation!

This trail was designed for a ride the whole family can enjoy. The trail winds its way up mountains where pinyon and juniper trees are scattered along the steep rocky slopes. These high hills provide for some great photographic opportunities with big game animals such as elk, deer, and mountain lions all calling these mountain top islands home.

As you descend into the valleys a dramatic change occurs when the vegetation turns to sagebrush and other low lying shrubs. The vast open expanses of the valleys provide for solitude and increase your chances of spotting antelope and golden eagles soaring overhead.

Please be sure to bring adequate fuel, food and water for your trip. Gas stops are not available along the trail.
